SISTER WOODWORTH.

and Cannot Leave It.

Springsold Journal Mrs. Woodworth did not appear at the Church of God last night, as had been expected. The brethren of the church have been anxiously expecting her all the week, but now she writes Mrs. W. P. Crafton that she cannot be here until about Sept. 1, or perhaps later. She is in the midst of a big meeting at St. Louis and the sunners are coming into the fold in such gaest numbers that she cannot find it in her heart to turn them away. A good many came early and thus avoided the rush, but a good many citizens of St. Louis who were against Chicago in the World's Fair fight are still coming to the altur and Mrs. Woodworth is using what infinence she has in their behalf. She will thus be detained until the forepart of September. Brother Ba-ker will preach his farewell sermon next Sunday night. He has not yet decided time, the devil would be expelled, upon a new location, but will have be called somewhere pretty soon. The called somewhere pretty soon. The church will want for the arrival of Mrs Woodworth before selecting a new pastor. In fact she will be depended upon almost entirely to pick out the new shepherd. The cowardice ay, he argued, in being afraid of the waiter's scorn at the apparent parsimony. He determined to be morally brave thereafter. The opportunity came. He finished his dessert and the waiter, in the customary manner of solicitude assumed by waiters when the customer looks good for an ample tip, placed his coffee before him. He weakened a trifle but resolved to brace himself. He drank his coffee somewhat more deliberately than usual, hoping to attain a state of mental composure, but as the time approached for disappointing the attentive negro, who already saw in his mind's eve a big round shiming coin, the brave man grew less equal to the deed he had

He handed the waiter a greenback in payment of his bill and dallied with the finger bowl while the waiter went to get the change. The change came back on the silver plate, two quarter pieces lying, as usual, a bit aloof from the rest of the change. The man's eye sought that of the waiter as he tremblingly reached for the change, and he beheld in the negro's face an expression of ex- beneficial results. pectancy almost realized. With a difficult simulation of calminess he succeeded in grasping all the change, including the two quarter pieces. Daring not to look at the waiter's countenance, he hastened from the room looking as if he had comnutted a crime. Good reader, let us take you into our confidence. "Hear us for our cause," for we are going to make you offers that will tempt every careful buyer. We have several thousand dollars worth of goods which we are determined we will not carry over. You have money which you can well afford to expend at the prices we shall offer you. We want the money. You want the goods. Why? Because we are going to sell many goods at positively

Less Than Cost of Manufacture.

The season for Summer goods is nearly over, and we find that we still have a large stock in this line. We are determined to turn all these goods into money if sacrifice prices

How can we most thoroughly convince you that the prices we shall quote are genuine sacrifice prices? How can we make you understand that the actual manufacturer's cost of many of the goods we offer is greater than the price we propose to sell to you at retail. If you will take pains to look over the bills you have paid in past years, if you will refresh your memory or look things up in your memorandum book, we believe you can understand almost as well as we do that the bonanza in buying shoes is at the great Ferriss & Laphman shoes tore and that the time is now.
